A Notable New Year Issue.

The January Delinquent has a rich and inviting table of contents, and attractive features are added to all the existing departments. Ira D. Sankey, the famous evangelist, vividly describes his journey through Egypt and Palestine, and the personality of the author gives to the papers an interest that is truly remarkable. They are illustrated by photographs made by L. Allen Sankey, who accompanied his father. Recent mournful events and the intense popular sympathy with Mrs. McKinley make very timely an article on Notable Pensioners of the Nation, in which the annuities paid to certain illustrious ladies are made public for perhaps the first time. Dr. S. R. Elliott begins his series of recollections of a group of women noteworthy for personal character and attainments, and Clara E. Laughlin tells with great charm the story of Poe's love and marriage. Some excellent fiction is offered in this number; the children are especially considered and the various miscellaneous articles—the fancy-work, cookery, the holiday display, house furnishing, etc.—have a distinctly seasonable flavor.

Timely Advice.

An enterprising editor appeals to his subscribers in this way: "If you have frequent headaches, dizziness and fainting spells, accompanied by chills, cramps, corns, warts, bunions, chilblains, epilepsy and jaundice, it is a sure sign that you are not well, but are liable to die at any minute. Pay your subscription a year in advance and thus make yourself solid for a good obituary notice."

You can take the three o'clock train go up and attend the Elks' big show and get back home at 12 o'clock, the same night. Can you afford to miss it? We think not.

The Event of The Winter.

"Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here, So What Te El Do We Care Now?" That is the gang will all attend the Elks' Minstrels at Richmond this Thursday evening, the 19th. The show will be put on by the National Promotion Co., the same people who put on the Fall Carnival at Cincinnati the past summer, so you can judge for yourself the kind of show the Elks will give. Hon. Rhodes Shackelford will act as interlocutor, while the "ends" will be played by D. P. Armer, Jake Collins, J. B. Stouffer, W. D. Oldham, T. B. Collins, Joe Giunchigliani and Alex. Denny. Tutt Burnam, Judge Rice and other prominent citizens will do specialty turns. This show will be the best ever given by the Elks in Central Kentucky, and almost the entire house has been reserved. A number of Lancaster people will go up, and if you want a seat secured, leave word with Louis Landrum, who has a limited number of tickets here. The Elks are the jolliest set of fellows on earth, or off it either, and what they purpose that they do.

Even at the present price of corn, if any one will compute results a little, he will see what a mistake it is to be rushing cattle and hogs to market only half finished. Both cattle and hogs are sure to go higher rather than lower between now and May, while corn will hardly go above 60 cents at best. It is this rushing to market half fat animals that is retarding prices of live stock now.
